

Hurricane and Waves Damage Cape May Boardwalk and Piers : Penn's Football Coach

The northeast hurricane and heavy tides of Wednesday night ripped away much of the Cape May boardwalk and covered many adjoining streets with water. At left of catching is home of S. R. Campbell. Damage done boardwalk and railway shown on right.

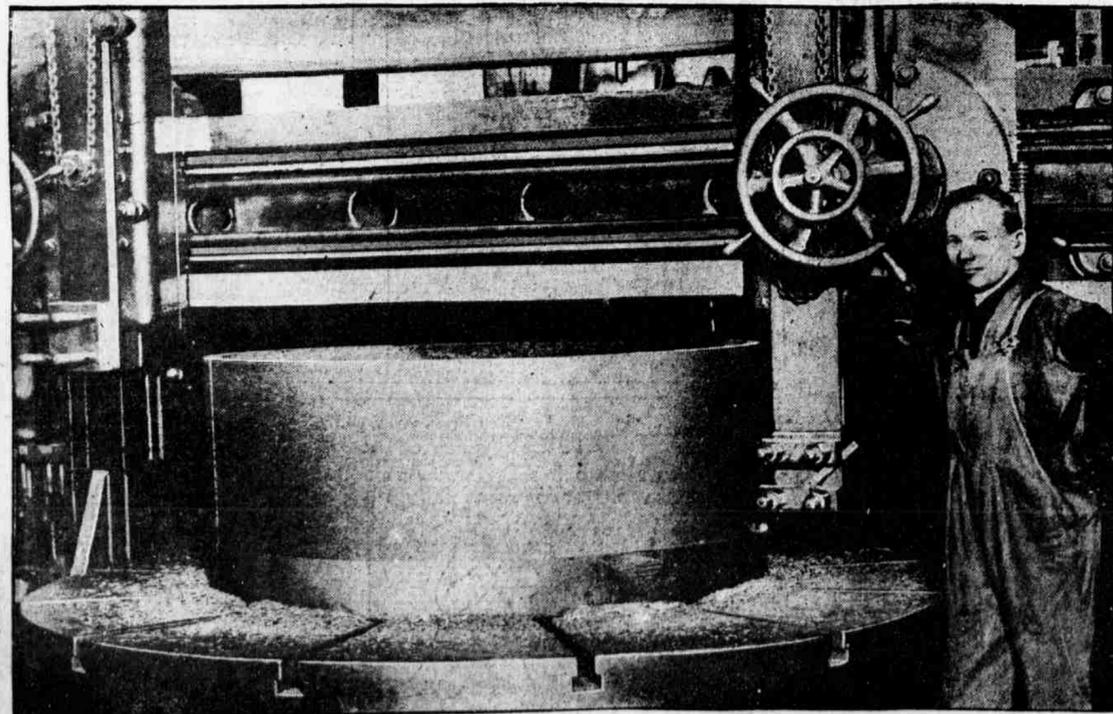

A tangle of Pullman car wheels snapped at the Frankford wreck, yesterday.

A fishing house was torn by the hurricane and waves from the extreme end of the Cape May fishing pier and tossed into the wild ocean.

OUR CITY'S WORKERS AND WHAT THEY DO

Operating a ten-foot boring mill which is turning a silent chain blank, at the Link Belt Co., Nicetown. Following this operation, teeth are cut in the wheel and it is finally finished as a powerful sprocket wheel. The operator is John A. Brown, Trevese, Pa.
